Leaders committed to taking action for justice for all

Providing Equal Access to Justice for All

Around the world, calls can be heard for social justice, gender justice, racial justice, and against inequality, corruption, and all forms of violence. People want their government and institutions to work for them, to overcome structural injustices and deliver solutions that affect their lives and opportunities.

Our current justice systems only deliver justice for the few and need to be transformed so that they can deliver equal access to justice for all, as promised by SDG16. By putting people at the center of justice and resolving and preventing justice problems, justice actors can make essential contributions to the economic recovery and societal reset.

Justice systems have a role to balance out power asymmetries, address rising inequalities and respond to demands for justice and fairness. When they embrace people-centered justice, they can restore trust by actively shaping a fair society.

Putting People at the Center of Justice

The past few years have seen a remarkable international mobilization to accelerate implementation of the SDGs and targets that call for justice for all by 2030. The Task Force on Justice, chaired by ministers from Argentina, the Netherlands, and Sierra Leone, and by the Elders, was at the heart of this movement. Its flagship report, Justice for All, proposes an agenda for action that:

Places justice at the heart of sustainable development – as a lever for reaching the furthest behind, creating conditions for shared prosperity, and promoting peace and inclusion.

Puts people at the center of justice systems – and starts with an understanding of what works to meet their justice needs.

Moves from justice for the few to justice for all – with a call for a transformation of ambition and a sustained effort to provide justice to billions more people.

Justice Action Coalition

The Justice Action Coalition is a multi-stakeholder, high-ambition coalition of countries and organizations, championing equal access to justice for all.

The guiding ambition of the Justice Action Coalition is to close the global justice gap and the goal is to achieve measurable progress in justice outcomes for people and communities by the second SDG Summit in 2023.

The Justice Action Coalition comprises the following member states: Canada, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, France, Germany, Indonesia, Kosovo, Liberia, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Niger, Portugal, São Tomé and Príncipe, Sierra Leone, Solomon Islands, Sweden and the United States of America.

The Justice Action Coalition has launched the 2023 Justice Appeal, calling for bold action to transform justice systems. It urges countries to pivot to people-centered justice by:

1. Gathering data on the justice people want and need and how they experience their justice journey.
2. Co-creating strategies to become much better at resolving and preventing people's most common justice problems, ensuring gender equality of all responses.
3. Setting shared goals for a range of justice actors and starting implementation of strategies to achieve these goals.
4. Investing at scale to transform justice as it is delivered to and experienced by people, reducing the number of unresolved justice problems, and creating fair outcomes.
